

Nineteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time – August 13, 2017

Relativism is Not Neutral

Moral relativism is the belief that there is no moral order to the universe, no moral norms that are objectively right or wrong, regardless of the circumstances. All morality is in the mind of the individual. To a relativist, someone who declares that a given act is sinful, is labeled judgmental. The more extreme relativists would even consider a believing Christian to be a close-minded bigot.

Professor Edward Sri has recently suggested that we could respond to a relativist by asking him to explain his position: “Why do you think that there is no universal moral norms?” “Why do you believe that each individual decides what is right or wrong for himself?” As he tries to explain himself, then ask him, “If someone is personally convinced it is okay to harm an innocent child or enslave a woman for personal pleasure, is it then okay?” Quickly the relativist will find himself in a logical dilemma. He will have to admit that certain actions are always wrong.

The problem is that relativism is not a morally neutral position. Relativism itself is a definite way of viewing reality. It is a specific world view. At the same time, relativism attempts to impose itself on everyone. If you uphold traditional moral values, you are marginalized and classified as judgmental or intolerant. Actually, it is relativism that is intolerant. As Pope Benedict once observed, “The more relativism becomes the generally accepted way of thinking, the more it tends toward intolerance, thereby becoming a new dogmatism... it prescribes itself as the only way to think and speak.” Practically speaking, relativism is a “super-dogma” that subordinates all religious convictions to itself. It becomes what Pope Benedict termed, “a dictatorship ... whose ultimate goal consists solely of one’s ego and desires.” It brooks no dissent.

We can see then, the conflicts that the dictatorship of relativism produces in a society that once defined itself as Christian. By its nature, relativism seeks to subjugate all moral teaching to its own subjective principles. But we know that no matter what the popular philosophy of life may be at a given moment in time, in the end, we will answer only to God. His Word is the final standard to which all reality must reconcile itself.

St. John Paul II, pray for us!

Fr. Tim Byerley
Pastor

Saint John Paul II from his Encyclical Letter The Splendor of Truth

All around us we encounter contempt for human life after conception and before birth; the ongoing violation of basic rights of the person; the unjust destruction of goods minimally necessary for a human life. Indeed, something more serious has happened: man is no longer convinced that only in the truth can he find salvation. The saving power of the truth is contested, and freedom alone, uprooted from any objectivity, is left to decide by itself what is good and what is evil. This relativism becomes, in the field of theology, a lack of trust in the wisdom of God, who guides man with the moral law. Concrete situations are unfavorably contrasted with the precepts of the moral law, nor is it any longer maintained that, when all is said and done, the law of God is always the one true good of man. (No. 85).

Relativism is an ideology which can only triumph if it is imposed in a totalitarian way. The tools to impose this ideology are the mass media, formal education and activist judges. The paradox is that “relativist” democracy becomes, surreptitiously, the worst totalitarianism.

Reading I – 1 Kings 19:9a, 11-13a

At the mountain of God, Horeb, Elijah came to a cave where he took shelter. Then the LORD said to him, “Go outside and stand on the mountain before the LORD; the LORD will be passing by.” A strong and heavy wind was rending the mountains and crushing rocks before the LORD—but the LORD was not in the wind. After the wind there was an earthquake—but the LORD was not in the earthquake. After the earthquake there was fire—but the LORD was not in the fire. After the fire there was a tiny whispering sound. When he heard this, Elijah hid his face in his cloak and went and stood at the entrance of the cave.

Responsorial Psalm – Psalm 85:9, 10, 11-12, 13-14

℟.* Lord, let us see your kindness, and grant us your salvation.

I will hear what God proclaims; the LORD — for he proclaims peace. Near indeed is his salvation to those who fear him, glory dwelling in our land.

℟.* Lord, let us see your kindness, and grant us your salvation.

Kindness and truth shall meet; justice and peace shall kiss. Truth shall spring out of the earth, and justice shall look down from heaven.

℟.* Lord, let us see your kindness, and grant us your salvation.

The LORD himself will give his benefits; our land shall yield its increase. Justice shall walk before him, and prepare the way of his steps.

℟.* Lord, let us see your kindness, and grant us your salvation.

Reading II – Romans 9:1-5

Brothers and sisters:

I speak the truth in Christ, I do not lie; my conscience joins with the Holy Spirit in bearing me witness that I have great sorrow and constant anguish in my heart. For I could wish that I myself were accursed and cut off from Christ for the sake of my own people, my kindred according to the flesh. They are Israelites; theirs the adoption, the glory, the covenants, the giving of the law, the worship, and the promises; theirs the patriarchs, and from them, according to the flesh, is the Christ, who is over all, God blessed forever. Amen.

Gospel – Matthew 14:22-23

After he had fed the people, Jesus made the disciples get into a boat and precede him to the other side, while he dismissed the crowds. After doing so, he went up on the mountain by himself to pray. When it was evening he was there alone. Meanwhile the boat, already a few miles offshore, was being tossed about by the waves, for the wind was against it. During the fourth watch of the night, he came toward them walking on the sea. When the disciples saw him walking on the sea they were terrified. “It is a ghost,” they said, and they cried out in fear. At once Jesus spoke to them, “Take courage, it is I; do not be afraid.” Peter said to him in reply, “Lord, if it is you, command me to come to you on the water.” He said, “Come.” Peter got out of the boat and began to walk on the water toward Jesus. But when he saw how strong the wind was he became frightened; and, beginning to sink, he cried out, “Lord, save me!” Immediately Jesus stretched out his hand and caught Peter, and said to him, “O you of little faith, why did you doubt?” After they got into the boat, the wind died down. Those who were in the boat did him homage, saying, “Truly, you are the Son of God.”
